

Financial Valuation Services for Private Companies

Valuation Practice Group: An Overview

Financial valuation is both science and art. Practitioners rely not only on the quantitative tools of economics, finance, and accounting and the qualitative sensibilities of law, management, marketing, and organizational theory, but also a liberal dose of “just plain common sense.”

As CPAs and business advisors, we bring our clients over 25 years of deep, multi-industry expertise in accounting and audit, taxation, financial reporting and systems, and business strategy and operations. Since we remain intimately involved in client wealth creation at all stages of the client life cycle, we understand that success is more than keeping tabs on the numbers. And value is more than a laundry list of costs.

We approach each engagement comprehensively—and impartially—to build a supportable, independent opinion of value. And we work so closely with the attorneys that we can practically read their minds... making us outstanding expert witnesses. Of course, we bring our common sense along too. So we can be successful as well as right.

A successful outcome in a shareholder dispute, structuring the most advantageous business acquisition, meeting increasingly stringent regulatory requirements, assisting partners in structuring the disposition of their professional practice, equitable distribution in a marital dissolution— whatever the valuation challenge, we will get you up to speed and to a resolution.

But that’s only a part of the story. For a more specific description of these and other accomplishments on behalf of our farming clients, please call:
